Moving on in Life

by Roseline Deleu

Moving on in Life	1	ARE YOU READY to MOVE ON with your LIFE? Well, I was... A simple and powerful 'TO DO' list to help you in the process.	I can imagine those of you who know me very well... will already be wondering what happened in my life... well only good things (as usual) and very exciting things too! I see my life as a great adventure and I love to incorporate my Feng Shui passion into it.	Did I get a lot of money for all this? Probably not as much as you think (even though I had really nice furniture) but I had no expectation as we were glad to let go. What is the point of waiting and waiting? Keep in mind that the only thing that you take with you when you die are your emotions not your material possessions!
Australian Feng Shui Conference	1	1. Accept your past	Yes, we moved again... but this time... before we moved, I decided to sell everything on Ebay. It took me 5 days to put the furniture and house hold items on auction and in less than one week, I was free of my past belongings! My son and I were left with our clothes and 'tax papers' to move and start anew. What a great feeling of relief. By the way I lost 5 kilos of my body weight with this process too.	Then, within days, life took a really amazing turn. I have great BIG news... I am very excited... but I have to keep this 'secret' until early December with the next newsletter. You will be flabbergasted!

Creating your Soul Garden	3	These seem to be drastic steps but OMG this is working so well... To evolve, regain your powers and look at your inner self (rather than blaming 'others'). True LOVE is when you accept someone, the way she/he is and NOT the way you want her/him to BE and send them LOVE no matter what!

Dear Roseline,

I would like to thank you for such a wonderful time doing the practitioner's course. Before doing your 5 days course, Michael and I decided to do some renovations on our new home. This we thought would be the ideal time for me to do the practitioners course that I had wanted to do for some time. Our home could then be renovated so that the energies would flow right for us. We knew this would make a difference in our lives but were surprised at how much and how quickly the changes manifested.

Before the course, we had a lot of difficulty getting tradesmen to come out to even give us a quote, they either didn't turn up, we never received a quote or the rare quotes we did receive were exorbitant. After making a few changes during the course, within the first week we had tradesmen turn up within a day of calling, could start almost instantly and not only that, their quotes were incredibly low.

We saved approx. $5500 on the original quotes and everything is happening now...the renovations are full steam ahead and not only that, the savings allowed us to acquire our website www.soulstarvibrations.com which will help our careers – (Feng Shui Consultations, Intuitive Healings and Psychic/ Medium Readings) – move forward, bringing us even more rewards – (financially, emotionally and spiritually). Thanks again Roseline.

Love and light,

Carol

My first Consultations

Dear Roseline,

I send you my best wishes. It is lovely to hear about your cartoon new book and I can't wait to read it.

I did a few consultations and I can tell that the Feng Shui energy is working very quickly. One of my client experienced changes in 3 hours after we did all her changes at home.

From the first moment as I entered her house, I realised we needed to enhance her relationship. I found in her area # 2 a table stuck on the wall, a dead plant, a broken fan and pictures in which all her relatives turned their back to her. It was just couple thing we change on that day and she wrote her 'To Do' list for further enhancements. She contacted me suddenly because her husband came back from the work unusually communicative in good mood and happy to share time with her and kids . Coincidence?

Thought is the quickest energy in the world!!! As you can see from next story.

My another client (lady) did changes without consultation with her husband.

What is more she did changes with thought that he can't accept refurbished room and will be upset about it. He was on bussiness trip at that time and she completely change position of furniture in the living room. He came at home and everything happen according to lady's projection. So she understand now power of thoughts and importance of communication.

I start with translation of your book now . If you have any suggestions, please, e-mail it to me.

Thanks for everything. Miroslava

Creating Your Soul Garden

by Olga Strachan

Creating your soul garden is about combining the metaphysical world of feelings and intent with the physical world of what is in your garden and what you want to do in your garden. Considering both allows for a balance to be created – the essence of feng shui – to create a soul garden.

I have developed eight easy steps for anyone to create their soul garden. All you need is yourself, some time, a notebook, pen and Roseline's book Easy Steps to Feng Shui.

Step 1. START FEELING

Taking a notebook and pen go outside in your current garden. Sit quietly for 5 minutes, looking around you. Write down what you see and how you feel about it e.g. I see a square of grass, dusty and dry with bare patches from where the dog scratches and I feel annoyed with its unkempt and bedraggled appearance.

Do this exercise on sunny and cloudy days. Write a few sentences describing what you see and how you feel about it.

Once you have decided how you feel about your current garden, sit quietly for a few more times to work out how you would like to feel in your garden. Write this down in your notebook.

Step 2. WHAT DO YOU WANT TO DO

This is the practical stuff. List all the things you would like to do in your new garden eg grow vegies, pick flowers, sit quietly in the sun, meditate, roll on the grass, make compost, dry clothes. Write down all these activities in the present tense using 'what I like to do'. Then list them in order of importance to you.

Step 3. LOOK AT THE SITE

More practical stuff. Look at your garden and list all the physical features eg flat, level ground, hilly area in south, exposed to west winds, heavily treed. Check the soil type – sandy, loam, clay. Is the soil acidic or alkaline - check the Ph with a Ph kit from your garden centre. Look at the slope to assess drainage. Look at the boundaries. Is there a wider view that can be borrowed?

Step 4. DECIDE ON A STYLE

Style is about the type of look for your garden eg tropical, desert, cottage, zen etc. It will depend on personal preference, climate, existing features to remain and style of the house. The aim is congruence and balance. People often have problems with this step as they lack confidence. A simple solution is to get some gardening books and magazines and look at the pictures. Look for the 'I like that' factor, a picture that jumps at you off the page.

Use your common sense. If you like a tropical theme but live where there are frosts you will have to choose plants wisely. Look at other gardens in your area, use the Open Garden Scheme, to get hints and ideas about plantings.

Step 5. REALITY CHECK

Go back and check whether the style you have selected fits how you want to feel and what you want to do in your new garden and what the physical elements of the site will allow. Balance involves layout, structures and plants that create the feelings you want, the style you like, uses plants that suit your climate and soil and uses water and other resources wisely.

By now, you should have a good feel for the areas, functions and style that you want in your garden.

Step 6. USE FENG SHUI

Get a plan of your property, use the Bagua grid (see Roseline Deleu's first book: "Your First Easy Steps to Feng Shui") and have fun with Feng Shui. Firstly, determine whether your garden is smaller or larger than the house. Where the garden is the largest, lay the Bagua grid over the property plan aligning the bottom edge with the main entrance to the garden. Using Roseline Deleu's book, consider each of the sectors, their associated colours, shapes and elements in light of what you want to go where.

Where the garden is smaller than the house, place the grid over the house plan and extend the lines out to the fence boundaries. The house becomes the focal element on the site. Using the grid, check if you have any missing sectors on the house. This needs to be remedied before looking at the garden. Look at squaring off the house with screens, poles, pergolas to create a complete grid.

Then consider the garden. Extend the grid to the fence boundaries. You now have extended sectors 8, 3, 4, 9, 2, 7, 6, depending on your block. Using Roseline Deleu's book, consider each of the sectors, their associated colours, shapes and elements in light of what you want to go where.

Step 7. DECIDE WHAT GOES WHERE

This is where it all comes together. You make decisions about what goes where. You may not fit all you want into the space or you may get stuck. If you do get all overwhelmed you can call on a feng shui landscape designer. Another option is to ask the Universe for help and to tell you which way to proceed. Then let it go ie don't worry and look for signs that happen to show you the direction.

Step 8. CREATION

This is where you produce the design. Throughout the process, it is important that you hold fast to Step 1, keeping in mind the feelings you want to feel in your soul garden. Your creation will then become congruent and reflect what you want.

Another point to remember is that gardens are constantly evolving and changing, just like we should be doing as conscious human beings. Like you, your soul garden will change over time. As trees grow and create shade, new under plantings will be required. Some plants may not flourish and will need to be moved. You may relocate pots and ornaments. This is all part of the normal life cycle which should be honoured. Gardens are never static, they develop their own energies and, if you have created wisely, this energy will resonate with you. You will love and look after your soul garden because you consciously created it to reflect part of you.

From Deep within the Earth

by Sally Turner

When I saw the Story about the water from the Outback on Brisbane Extra I had to know more...I asked Sally Turner, the owner of Life Energy Water® to explain what it is and why is it different.

This was her reply...

'Life Energy Water' is a Naturally Alkaline (non-acidic) Mineral Water that contains an abundance of alkaline minerals and essential trace elements and has a soft silky smooth taste and texture that Every BODY Loves!'

People all over Australia are discovering how different they feel after drinking this beautiful alkaline water, bottled at the Source in The Great Australian Outback. The great thing about bottling such pure water at the Source is that it only needs to be micro-filtered to satisfy the Health Dept requirements. It is tested by the Health Dept microbiology lab in Brisbane before being released for sale. No chemical processing means a lot to the people who want purity, but not the other stuff!'

'It is a good feeling to know that I am producing a mineral water that people really love and prefer to drink.'
Sally Turner is known the Water

Woman and is the owner of the family operated company, located half way to Birdsville in Western Queensland.

'The fact that so many children and animals love this water tells me I am on the right path'. Sally carries a supply of small Life Energy Water bottles with her wherever she goes and gives them to 'random strangers', mainly children, telling them that it was bottled especially for them with Love. Many of the Life Energy Water children sleep with the bottle under their pillow, particularly if they are sick. Children are especially fond of this water which contains high levels of bicarbonates and silica. Life Energy Water contains 26mg/l silica and 280mg/l bicarbonates. Bicarbonates are known to settle indigestion and reflux and once people with food intolerances find it, they become regular Life Energy Water drinkers.

The pleasing thing is that doctors, dentists, naturopaths, nutritionists, natural therapists and health food and organic shop owners are drinking the water themselves and many are stocking it and recommending it to others because they have experienced first hand how easy it is to balance acid levels when they drink Life Energy alkaline water.

We make no claims. We never will. All we suggest is that people drink a bottle a day for a month or so and then make up their own mind. For more information please visit www.lifeenergywater.com or email Sally at info@lifeenergywater.com Phone 0427 174 247 or 0428 4 92837 (0428 4 WATER)

Sally Turner, will be attending the Feng Shui Conference and will have Life Energy Water available to purchase during the day and will be taking orders for delivery to your home if you decide to give it a go. Sally is also looking for more people to become Home Delivery Distributors so this will be a great opportunity to meet The Water Woman.
