Expressing my Gratitude by Roseline Deleu

Today, probably more than ever, I feel very blessed to be able to write this newsletter. I am also very lucky to contribute to many others world wide from Brazil to South Africa. I am a regular contributor to Australian magazines too: Connect (Tropical North QLD), White Light Magazine (Australia Wide distributed in most of the New Age Shops), This Month Magazine (Gold Coast) only to name the latest Ones that I joined.

A few people approached me last month at the Natural Spirit Event in Sydney telling me: "Hello, Roseline, I am on your email list, it is so good to receive your emails and newsletters, thank you to keeping us informed". It made me realise that my messages are getting 'out there' and that they inspire people. Sitting all by myself in front of my laptop... I have no idea who reads what and who would like to talk to me about their problem but... are too shy to do it.

Well, too many of you probably have thought of contacting me, hesitating and thinking that I must be too busy.

Busy I am indeed... but I always find time to reply to an email.

Thank you to all of you who contact me!

Look at these pictures, most of you probably know me best as 'the inspirational speaker', on stage, in the lime light...

But ... I am also a Feng Shui Master and this means a lot to me.

I connect with many people and help them helping themselves... I also connect with the 'Land' and this is essential in my life now.

In July, I was very privileged to spend a week in Tropical North QLD with two wonderful people: Susan O'Sullivan (who writes in this newsletter) and C.J. Fisher an indigenous shaman. This week together created very special energy bonds between the 3 of us and more importantly between each of us and the Land.

For indigenous people the Land is "the Boss", it is respected, honoured and cared for in many different ways. The community where we stayed is a drug and alcohol free Aboriginal community in land between Cairns and Cooktown, the road there is only accessible with a 4WD. When we compare to most of us living in the cities, they live with very basic comfort. Now, some of them are reigniting their traditional ways of living, reconnecting with the strong indigenous traditions of living in respect and in synergy with the Land.

So did we.

When I walk into your home, it tells me about your life: the objects that you display, the way you position your furniture, the memories that vibrate in certain parts of your rooms... all this reveals who you are right now with your challenges and your strengths.

When in nature, the Land speaks to me, the trees, the plants and animals have their language that I manage to grasp after disconnecting from our 'day-to-day matrix'.

My teachings are special simply because I LIVE Feng Shui rather than 'doing Feng Shui'. It is easy to study the first steps of this art of placement through a book (especially one of mine ☺) but I teach more as in include practice and hands-on experiences.

Two projects:

1. In the future, we will be organizing a retreat in this Aboriginal community. This metaphysical adventure is accessible to all of you who are interested to experience Feng Shui on the Land (beginners are welcome, no prerequisite of Feng Shui is required). Please express your interest by email.

2. For those who want to become one of my Feng Shui Practitioner-Consultant, contact me to organize a 6 days course with you. Call 0412 717 454 or email to roseline@fengshuisteps.com

Intuition - Susan O'Sullivan

When we live our life through our intuitive self we become ONE with everything in our world, therefore we become at peace with our deepest self.

As an intuitive reader I do not look inside people's lives unless I am invited or given clear guidance to do so. It would be a bit like walking into someone's house without knocking. There is a lot more to being intuitive than predicting the future or giving lucky lotto number for the big win. It requires a deep understanding of yourself (personal development) freeing yourself from judgment about what is considered good or bad. Being able to attune with the world in harmony and listen to all the shifts of energy around you. The more attuned you are, the more you pick up. The less attuned, the more you miss. Listen with your heart!

Susan O'Sullivan is available for Readings on the Gold Coast on 9, 10, 13 and 14 October 2008, for bookings call 0417 730 313

Australian Wildlife Wisdom Cards

by Susan O'Sullivan Speaker @ 2008 Feng Shui Conference

"What on earth is this?" I hear you say.

A bill like a duck, a tail like a beaver, a fur covered, egg laying mammal?

"How could this be? It's amazing to see! My mind struggles hard to believe."

Platypus is the inconceivable being. You will not find another creature to compare. He is proud to consider his place as Australia's most individual, individual. He makes his home in a burrow on a riverbank and forages for food all along the riverbed.

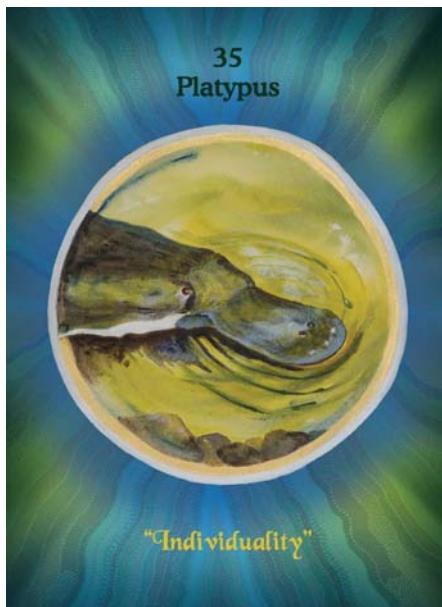

Like his tranquil shy nature, Platypus seeks calm waters to call home. He prefers the afternoon an early morning to scour the bottom of his riverbed for food, only returning to the surface to take the occasional breath of air.

If you wish to view Platypus in the wild, you must hold patience at your heart. You need to be still as you wait in the silence of the early morning hour. If you are gifted with a lucky fleeting glance, consider yourself graced with one of the true beauties in our Creators plan. This little wonder of the Aussie waterways will surprise and amaze as he surfaces briefly for a quick gulp of air.

It would seem that the Creator designed Platypus from the remnants of divine designs at his hand. He is a one-of-a-kind masterpiece.

As small as he is, Platypus still needs to be tough to survive in the wild. To the untrained eye he appears defenceless, an unsuspecting target for predators of the waterways. But Platypus whispers "Please be warned, I can pack a powerful punch to protect myself or my young."

To fend off danger, Platypus has two large spines positioned on his hind webbed feet that will inflict an extremely painful jab.

Platypus stands out from the crowd. For some people standing out can often mean an unpleasant experience under the spotlight called "judgment." Many unconscious minds may find the need to be cruel and judgmental when faced with that which is unfamiliar to their world.

Platypus asks "Are your differences being judged with harsh words of fear? Or perhaps your thoughts and words are judging others who stand in their light at this time?"

Platypus reminds you "When faced with unconscious behaviours of this kind, whether aimed at you or from you, it is time to come to your own rescue."

Platypus medicine asks you to be patient and forgiving of others when faced with potentially hurtful ways. Do not become attached to the words, listen to the heart instead, which speaks only of fear. It is only the fear of that which is different that feeds the pain of unconscious words.

If perhaps they are your words of fear, then Platypus asks you to listen to your own heart and acknowledge your own fears. Walk away from the judgment and ask yourself "What it is that I am frightened of in this difference that I now face?"

Platypus has come to your hand to remind you that there are no two people that hold identical hands. He asks "Do you perhaps hold yourself back from shining your light of individuality for fear of the sting from an unconscious bite?"

"I am so different to look at" Platypus tells you. "The light of my fire works because of my differences. There are those that seek me out to view my individuality. So too will they seek you when you begin to shine your light of difference fearlessly or allow others to shine theirs without judgment also."

The medicine of Platypus says "Make the differences of the world count. Do what you need to shine your light with harmlessness and you will be remembered for your truth not your fears. Congratulations trendsetter, take my advice and stand proudly in your differences."

It is only your reaction to the unconscious words of fear that can hurt you. Remove your reaction and stand tall in your truth. Platypus asks you to be the conscious one. If you feel others may not be so kind, it is time for you to take control. Be unique and non-reactive, find the laughter in the unconscious words, acknowledge the fear, and do not judge it.

Let your new way of thinking make you really stand out in a crowd.

A Career Boost—the Feng Shui Way

by Sue Jarrett

The last few years have proved trying in my career. I knew I had come off my path, but despite much soul searching, personal development and career planning, I just seemed to be stuck. My current work environment was not allowing me to display my strengths and was not holding my interest. Despite applying for other positions within and outside the office, nothing was coming my way - there appeared to be no way out!

So I decided to make the best of it and re-train in my own time for something that I really wanted to do. I had been tossing up for some time between Coaching and Interior Design incorporating Feng Shui. I wanted to do both but felt that I had to concentrate on one at a time, especially as it had to be done in my spare time to begin with. Interior Design won out and I completed a Diploma qualification last year.

At the beginning of 2008, I decided some Feng Shui enhancements were required in my career sector to help boost my Interior Design business along. I moved some things around in sector one of my home and added some red candles to my sector nine. It was at about this time that I booked into the Feng Shui practitioner course with Roseline, to be conducted later in April.

Within a couple of weeks of making these changes, my workplace asked me to lead a new project organizing the corporate coaching strategy. It was expected to take 3 - 6 months to complete the project, at which point I was to return to my existing role. I was very excited at this unexpected development, so I accepted the new challenge on the spot. I realized within the first week that I was back on my path and that I needed to secure this position permanently, even though a permanent position did not exist as yet.

At the end of my third week of this new role, I completed the Feng Shui practitioner course with Roseline. What an experience! The first day of the training was held at my home. I realized very quickly that there were a few key concepts that I had not fully understood from all my reading as I watched Roseline point out the Feng Shui changes required in every room of my home. Then the moving started and rooms were turned upside down as furniture was re-positioned and changes made. I felt like I had been through a whirlwind. I was unsettled, unnerved and feeling like my energy was swirling. By the end of the day my house was in complete disarray and I was shattered. I realized that I still had a lot to learn let alone a lot to move to get the house back in order.

Roseline had commented that many of the changes made in my home were aimed at strengthening the "helpful people" sector of my home and specific rooms. The next couple of days training consolidated key concepts and really helped me to clarify where to from here. With every spare minute over the following couple of weeks, I made many more changes in line with my new knowledge. Sector 6 certainly felt better than it ever had since I moved in. This training had a profound impact on me and I had a number of monumental "aha" moments.

Then the miracle happened. Despite huge budget cuts and staffing freezes I have been transferred permanently to the newly created coaching role in my workplace. I was the last person to be transferred in or out before the freeze was announced. Important staff members in my and other organizations have gone out of their way to assist me to make this happen without being asked! Other colleagues are asking me how I managed to pull off such a coo under such restrictive conditions.

I feel truly blessed to have this new opportunity in my workplace and to have experienced the magic of Feng Shui so dramatically first hand. I am more motivated to incorporate my Feng Shui knowledge into the interior design business I am building in my spare time and look forward to helping others transform their world with these concepts. I would never have thought that the two fields that I wanted to pursue would both come to me at the same time. I have come to realize that there are definite synergies between these two fields and have worked out how to incorporate both over time into my daily work. I am well and truly back on my path.

Thank you Roseline!

Your Story inspire Others

by Sally Turner Sponsor of the '08 Feng Shui Conference

Marilyn (Birkdale, QLD) recently wrote to say 'Thank You Life Energy Water'.

Marilyn has been drinking Life Energy Water for the water for the last 6 months and after visiting the web site (and reading the feed back stories there), realized that the water was actually giving her energy that she didn't have before! She had been drinking the water for the alkaline effects but did not associate the water with the fact that she was no longer sleeping during the day due to the disrupted sleep patterns and the pain of fibromyalgia.

Marilyn says she now hardly even sits down all day long and she is busy all the time, whereas in the past she was tired all the time. An added bonus is no colds or sickness! In Marilyn's own words, 'the water is fantastic'!

We agree!

My husband also has fibromyalgia. (normally a woman's disease!) John is also bright eyed and bushy tailed since he's become a devoted Life Energy Water drinker! When we first started to bottle the water, John would often take up to 20 hours to drive the 12-14 hour trip that he now regularly does without a sleep, but with quite a few Pit Stops!

The reason Marilyn and John and many other Life Energy Water lovers are feeling so much better and more about to cope with life is that their blood and brain and muscles are far more oxygenated now that they consume the high pH alkaline mineral water and their organs are better supported by the reduced acidity. Acidity means less oxygen were it is needed and Alkaline water is a great place to start with getting and keeping your body alkaline, oxygenated and youthful.

The added bonus with Life Energy Water is the beautiful taste and the important minerals and trace elements it contains. This water carries some very unique nutrients and aids to help keep us youthful and healthier for longer. Apart from the bicarbonates and natural fluoride it has one of the highest levels of silica available in Australia. The long living Hunza people also consumed water that is very similar in mineral composition to Life Energy Water, so drink up and live longer, happier more useful lives and spend the kid's inheritance!

Food for Thoughts...

"When we find NO fault in all that we see, we will merge with all that is".

The world is becoming a great big melting pot with all the global movement and conscious acceptance of each others cultural beliefs. Some of the most ancient traditions have said the sacred words, "We are all One".

Let us look at ways of finding that Oneness in our own lives.
